

WINning:

The Trials, Tribulations, and Triumphs of Opening a Women's Shelter

Marsha Mildon

In the late 1960s, women arriving in Edmonton without friends, money, or homes, had no good choices. The people who realized this came together to start a shelter. This book chronicles the 50-year history, and more importantly, the stories of how the founders got started, how they worked for years despite setbacks, how they fought to keep going, and how they won to serve those women in need.
